Goals

- Learn a proven leadership development model that you can use to develop yourself as a leader.
- Practice and be ready to use feedforward – as a basis for learning, coaching and team building.

Developing yourself as a leader and partner

- ASK
- LISTEN
- THINK
- THANK
- RESPOND
- INVOLVE
- CHANGE
- FOLLOW-UP

Peter Drucker on asking

“The leader of the past knew how to tell.

The leader of the future will know how to ask.”

- Why don't we ask:
 - At work?
 - At home?
- Case studies at home:
 - Partner?
 - Children?
 - Parents?
- Who do you need to ask?

LISTEN

- The first thing that we want to do is the last thing that we should do
- Stop:
 - Asking for input - then expressing our opinion
 - Making excuses
- Classic challenges for leaders

THINK

- The Frances Hesselbein story
- Avoid ‘speaking when angry or out of control’
- Hard at work – even harder at home

THANK

- Avoid ‘punishing the messenger’
 - The ‘correcting my driving’ case study
 - Why do we punish people who are trying to help us?
- Two very different examples of asking for input:
 - Negative – the operating room
 - Positive – the fighter jet

- Responding to 360° feedback:
 - Positive
 - Simple
 - Focused
 - Fast
 - Feedforward* - ask for ideas for the future – not more feedback about the past
 - Promise to listen and think – not to do everything that people suggest

INVOLVE

- Keys to successful behavioral change:
 - Set a clear goal
 - Write down the goal
 - Publicly state the goal
 - Measure your success in goal achievement
 - Involve a support group in helping you achieve the goal

- After 12 years - a great question
- Can people change? Definitely
- Will people change? Maybe
- 32 years in determining an answer

- The key to making change last
- Frequency is more important than duration
- Sticking with it
- Implications for coaches and their clients

“Leadership is a Contact Sport”

- Summary impact research
- Over 86,000 participants (248,000 in upcoming study)
- Cross-cultural, cross-industry, multi-level validation
- One of nine most-outstanding articles ever published in *Strategy+Business

Commonalities

- Multi-rater feedback
- Focused areas for improvement
- Discussion with co-workers
- On-going follow up
- Custom-designed mini-survey

Change in leadership effectiveness

My co-worker did no follow-up

Change in leadership effectiveness

My co-worker did a little follow-up

Table 2

Change In leadership effectiveness

My co-worker did some follow-up

Change in leadership effectiveness

My co-worker did frequent follow-up

Change in leadership effectiveness

My co-worker did consistent/periodic follow-up

Feedforward

- The feedforward exercise
- Letting go of the past
- Listening to suggestions without judging
- Learning as much as you can
- Helping as much as you can
- Learning points to help you be a great coach

Applications of feedforward

- Leadership development
- Coaching
- Team Building
- Family
- The LPR

Articles for review

Goals

- Discuss classic problems faced by successful leaders
- Be ready to use 'what to stop' in coaching
- Learn how to use the proven Stakeholder Centered Coaching process.
- Understand how leaders can Expand the Value of Coaching.
- Be ready to help leaders change perception as well as changing behavior.
- Be ready to use Team Building without Time Wasting.

*Teaching leaders what to STOP

“We spend a lot of time helping leaders learn what to do,
we don’t spend enough time helping leaders learn what to stop.”

Peter Drucker

Classic challenges for successful leaders

- Winning too much
- Adding too much value
- Passing too much judgment
- Proving how smart we are
- Classic Challenges of Super Smart Leaders

Classic challenges for successful leaders

- Destructive comments
- Playing favorites
- Punishing the messenger

What percent of all interpersonal communication time is spent on...

- People talking about how smart, special or wonderful they are (or listening to someone do this)

- People talking about how stupid, inept or bad someone else is (or listening to someone do this)?

Learning from a great leader

- The most important factor for successful change is the client – not the coach
- Don't make coaching about your own ego
- If they don't care – don't waste your time
- If you don't care – don't waste your time

When SCC will not work

- The person doesn't want to change
- “Written-off” by the company
- Lacks business or technical knowledge
- Wrong strategy or direction
- Integrity or ethics violations
- Person in wrong job - company

The Stakeholder Centered Coaching Model

- The history of ‘pay only for result’s’ coaching
- Qualifying coaching clients – internally or externally
- Determining key stakeholders
- Involving upper management
- Interviewing key stakeholders
- Feedback and follow-up
- Measuring positive change

The Stakeholder Centered Coaching Model

- The evolution of SCC
 - The importance of the coach
 - The importance of the client
 - The importance of the Stakeholders
- Guidelines for stakeholders
 - Focus on the future – feedforward
 - Be positive, not cynical
 - Tell the truth
 - You try to improve as well

Applying the change model in SCC

- ASK
- LISTEN
- THINK
- THANK
- RESPOND
- INVOLVE
- CHANGE
- FOLLOW-UP

Changing perception

- Why changing perception is more difficult than changing *behavior
- How follow-up leads to a long-term change in perception – as well as behavior
- The Roman numeral watch case study

Expanding the value of coaching

- Four great case studies
 - Alan Mulally
 - France Hesselbein
 - Kent Kresa
 - Hubert Joly

Team building without time wasting

- Where we are vs. where we need to be
- Determining team-wide area for change
- Determining individual area for change
- Developing a follow-up system
- Measuring success

Becoming the Person You Want to Be

Creating the Person You Want to Become

Dr. Marshall Goldsmith

Marshall@MarshallGoldsmith.com

www.MarshallGoldsmith.com

Goals

- Practice the Heroes exercise to help determine the person that you want to create.
- Review the concept of MOJO – and increase your probability of experiencing happiness and meaning in life.
- Learn how the Wheel of Change can be used to help you plan your life and coach others.
- Be ready to use The Credibility Matrix to help you determine when you need to achieve credibility and when you need to ‘let go’.

Who is in control?

Mutual creation

I am creating my world and at the same time my environment is creating me

Fate vs. choice

- Fate – The hand of cards that we have been dealt.
- Choice – How we play the hand.

The Heroes Exercise

- Choose two of your most important heroes
 - One could be a fictional or historic character
 - Pick one person who is still alive and that you can contact
 - Do not look for 'perfect' heroes

The Heroes Exercise

- Why is this person your hero?
 - What changes can you make in your life to become more like the person who is a hero to you?
 - How this exercise totally changed my life
 - Contact your hero and say, ‘thank you’!

MOJO

That positive spirit toward what you are doing now that starts from the inside and radiates to the outside

MOJO* is a function of:

- Person
 - Activity
 - Time

What leads to personal and professional fulfillment

- Purpose
- Achievement
- Meaning
- Happiness
- Relationships
- Engagement
